ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

The residence at 67 Main Street was built c.1900 as an American Foursquare. This 3x3 bay, wood frame, 2 story building sits on a rusticated cement block foundation. The building is clad with wood shingles. The hip roof is covered with asphalt shingles. A brick chimney is located in the center of the building. The entrance is off-center and contains a early 20th century wood door with a large glass pane in the upper section. The windows contain 2/2 sash. The corner boards are thin and flat. the cornice is boxed. A hip roof open porch runs across the facade of the building and is supported by Doric columns. A bay window projects from the west elevation.

HISTORICAL NARRATIVE:

This is a typical building form built in the early 20th century. The American Foursquare building form is a common building type in Kingston and the surrounding communities. the early 20th century owner of this building was P. Baker.
