Note paid Oct. 1, 1910,	500 00
	$3,050 00
Total water debt Jan. 1, 1911,	$18,800 00

There will be due in 1911, $2,000.00 on bonded debt and $1,050.00 on notes, together with interest on the debt for 12 months.

The Commissioners have for some years found it impossible to conduct the affairs of the Department in a satisfactory manner without overdrawing the appropriations that have been made.

During 1910 a total of 990 feet of main pipe has been laid for supplying newly built houses. 15 new services have been connected and 1 old service pipe renewed. 8 curb boxes, 1 gate box, and 5 hydrants have been condemned and replaced. 2 old hydrants have been repaired and reset, and 2 new ones have been placed where extensions have been made. 5 new gates have been purchased and set as the beginning of a system of gates, which, when completed, will do away with the annoyance caused by shutting off water in the vicinity of hydrants needing repairs.

The Indicating and Recording Apparatus authorized by the Town has been installed and is doing all that was expected of it, plainly showing in the Pumping Station just the height of water in the reservoir.

It is perhaps needless to remark that when properly watched it is a safeguard against low water there, also against any waste of power by pumping into an overflowing reservoir.

GEORGE B. HOLMES,

SAMUEL G. AUSTIN,

CHARLES H. DREW,

Water Commissioners.

The first matter that the school committee desires to mention is the need of additional accommodations at Rocky Nook, to which attention was called in their report last year. The conditions which prevailed a year ago are now even worse. It will be seen by the superintendent's report that some provision must be made—the sooner the better—to relieve the situation. To this end the committee intend to have inserted in the town warrant an article pertaining to the provision of additional accommodations. The committee recommends the addition of two rooms to the Howland's Lane building as the least expensive manner of providing the necessary room.

Necessary repairs have been made on the various school buildings. There should not be a great deal to be done in this respect during 1911.

For some years insurance has been carried only on the High school building. Last year the committee considered it for the best interest of the town to insure the following school buildings: Maple Avenue, Howland's Lane and Upper Center Primary.

Capt. Henry B. Maglathlin, a former associate, died Feb. 17, 1910. Although he had not been a member of the committee for some time previous to his death, the loss was keenly felt by all of its members. His deep interest in school matters, which continued up to the end, is too well known to need especial mention.

We recommend the following appropriations for the necessary expenses for the current year:

Teachers' wages,	$5,800 00
Fuel and care,	2,100 00
Repairs,	500 00
Incidentals,	400 00

This year for the first time for many years we are able to report that there has been no change in the list of teachers in charge of our schools. This has been particularly advantageous to the schools as it has meant that no time has been lost in becoming familiar with the work and getting acquainted with the pupils, in general becoming adjusted to the conditions that always accompanies a change of teachers. I feel that all deserve credit for faithful and effective work in their several positions.

While we have maintained a very creditable per cent. of attendance for the past year it has fallen from the high mark of a year ago. This has been due to two causes chiefly. There has been an unusual amount of sickness from minor ailments, and last winter the attendance was affected by storms and bad travel to an unusual degree. This appears especially in the record of the lower grades, although it shows in a less degree in all the schools. There has been, however, an amount of unnecessary absence, as it seems to me, that calls for notice. It is not merely that we get a lower percentage of attendance that prompts me to mention it. That is the least important phase of the matter. It is the effect upon the man or woman to be, the character that is being formed, that demands our attention. Habits of punctuality and promptness in meeting the duties of life are not formed in a day, and the youth who leaves school without training in these virtues is seriously handicapped.

Of the effect that irregularity of attendance has upon the work of the pupil I shall speak later in speaking of the promotions, suffice it to say here that there is no grade in which even a single day's absence may be, and probably will be, a distinct loss to the pupil.

The past year medical inspection has been carried on more thoroughly and more effectively than ever before. As the value of service becomes appreciated the prejudice which it met in some cases at first has disappeared and there is a greater readiness to take advantage of its benefits. It has occasionally happened, however, that parents have taken offence at the notice sent in regard to conditions brought to light by the examination of the School Physician. It should be sufficient to remind these that in sending this notice he is but obeying the provisions of the law which is passed for the benefit of the individual and for the protection of the community. Parents are required to send their children to school and it is only fair to them that they should be protected from the danger of contracting disease just as far as it is possible to furnish such protection.

It will be noticed that the statistics at the beginning of this report include, not only those of the past year, but also, for the purpose of comparisons, those of the year before and for the year 1901-1902. Before proceeding to discuss these figures it may be well to explain some of the terms and the reason for some of the classifications. The law requires a census to be made annually of the children residing in town on the first of September between the ages of five and fifteen. It requires a report of the number of each sex, and a similar report of the number between the ages of seven and fourteen, that is of the children who are required to attend school. The total membership of the schools is the entire number who have attended at any time during the given period and tends to increase as the end of the year approaches, especially in a community where there is a moving population. The number not enrolled elsewhere in the state represents those who, at the time of entering our schools, had not already attended any other school in the state during the current school year. The average membership is used by the state authorities as a basis of making comparisons and computing the cost per pupil of the instruction in the Commonwealth.

To return now to the figures, it will be observed that the census shows that we had last September 116 more children of school age in Kingston than there were eight years ago. Our average membership and average attendance last year were each 55 greater than the same items in 1901-1902, while the figures for the fall term just closed show an increase of 83 in average membership and 86 in average attendance over those reported eight years ago.

In my report last year I called attention to the fact that it would be necessary to provide further accommodations at Rocky Nook in the near future. The same conditions prevail now as existed a year ago only the situation is more urgent. To show the growth of that section I will state that the December enrolment for the three schools eight years ago amounted to 92. Last December it was 145. The primary and intermediate schools each had an average membership for the fall term of 52 and by law an assistant teacher could have been required for each room. In the primary school the pupils were accommodated by providing only half day sessions, that too, in a school where, on account of the large number of pupils who are handicapped by their inability to speak English, the very best facilities should be furnished.

I would recommend that the Howland's Lane building be converted into a four room building by the addition of another story with such interior changes as shall be necessary to provide the required stairways, halls, etc. Examination has shown that this may be done at a price much lower than would provide the needed room by erecting a new building.

At the close of the school year in June, 268 pupils received full promotion, 40 conditional promotion and 35 were required to repeat the year's work. Of the pupils conditionally promoted about one-sixth proved unable to satisfactorily perform the work of the higher grade and were returned to the class from which they were advanced. Of the pupils not promoted only fifteen were in grades above the fourth, and of the remainder over half were in the first grade. Of the causes for non promotion irregularity of attendance is easily first. Of the fifteen pupils mentioned above seven were absent an average of thirty-two days apiece, and always for reasons that to the parent seemed good and sufficient, and in some cases at least certainly were so. Another contributing cause has been inadequate preparation. Some children are entered at school at the earliest possible age, regardless of the fact that age is not always a safe indication that the child is prepared to derive the greatest benefit from the school. In a large majority of cases these children are obliged to repeat the work of a subsequent grade even if they succeed in passing for the first year or two. Of the children in the first grade who failed to complete the work a large proportion were from foreign families and unfamiliarity with the English language was added to the causes already mentioned.

This matter of promotions is one of the most trying that the teacher has to meet. Her duty is to the pupil. The question that she must ask is, "Is it better for this child to promote him or to require him to do the work over?" She should know his ability and his attainments, as well as what will be required of him in the next class. In four-fifths of the cases the answer is simple and the decision easily reached. It is the other fifth that causes perplexity, and in her desire to give the pupil the benefit of any doubt the teacher undoubtedly occasionally recommends for promotion children who would better be required to repeat the work. For one instance of this kind, however, there are many where the teacher is urged by the parent to allow a child to go on, who the teacher feels is not ready to do so, and where the result usually vindicates the judgment of the teacher. Most of the friction that arises between the home and the school would be avoided if parents would keep themselves familiar with the work of the school and get their information of conditions there at first hand by frequently visiting it. Seeing the pupils at their regular work is not so showy as seeing them at special exercises and exhibitions, but it is vastly more informing.

EVERETT G. LORING,
Superintendent.

REPORT OF SCHOOL PHYSICIAN.

The School Physician has made twenty-two calls and a total of 689 examinations of pupils during the year ending December 31, 1910. This does not mean that 689 pupils were examined, but that some were examined more than once. All pupils were examined at least once and again whenever occasion demanded.

The following diseases or diseased conditions were found:

Decayed teeth, 311.

Enlarged tonsils, 96.

Impetigo contagiosa, 6.

Pediculosis, 5.

Scabies, 5.

Chicken pox, 5.

Adenoids, 3.

Anemia, 2.

Mumps, 2.

Ringworm, 2.

Acute conjunctivitis, and tonsillitis, one each.

As in previous years where any diseased condition was found a notice was sent to the parent or guardian stating the condition found. All pupils suffering from any contagious or infectious disease were excluded from school until they presented a certificate stating that all danger of their communicating the disease had passed.

Pupils who are excluded from school should return to the school physician for examination for re-admission on or before the date assigned, unless sooner receiving a certificate from another physician.

The General Court of 1910 passed an amendment to the law governing the issue of age and schooling certificates, whereby the applicant shall present a certificate from the school physician that he is "of sufficiently sound health and physically able to perform the work which he intends to do," before an age and schooling certificate shall be issued. This may be obtained by presenting an employment ticket to the school physician.

In accordance with the above provisions six pupils have been examined and the required certificate issued in each case.

Respectfully submitted,

OSCAR C. SWOPE, M. D.

School Physician.
